TEI By Example

Edward Vanhoutte
Ron Van den Branden
Melissa Terras

Centre for Scholarly Editing and Document Studies (CTB), Royal Academy of Dutch Language and Literature, Belgium, Gent, 9 July 2010

Last modified on: 2017-09-01
Licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution ShareAlike 3.0 License
TABLE OF CONTENTS

1. Introduction ........................................................................................................................ 1
1. Introduction

Contrary to the other examples sections, this examples section of the introductory TBE tutorial will illustrate different types of encoding for one sample text. These markup samples will range from procedural to descriptive markup languages, in a variety of formats (text, SGML, XML). Before starting, have a look at the following document:
Review

Die Leiden des jungen Werther\(^3\) is an exceptionally good example of a book full of Welt schmerz.

\(^3\) by Goethe

---

Fig. 1.

In this short piece of prose, following text structures can be distinguished:
- a heading
- a paragraph
Apart from these structures, some textual phenomena can be distinguished:

- a title ("Die Leiden des jungen Werther")
- emphasised text ("exceptionally")
- a term ("Weltschmertz")
- a name ("Goethe")

Let's have a look how different encoding flavours treat these phenomena.